

Editorial Message

Dear Readers,

An upcoming research journal “Annals of Dental Specialty” is presenting its volume 2; second issue (April – June) of the year 2014.

The primary objective of our journal is dissemination of scientific knowledge. Scientific publications stimulate thinking and research. It acts as repository and provides permanent record of facts. Likewise our journal plays an important role in the field of dentistry in spreading of the new knowledge and data.

Guidelines for the publications in “Annals of Dental Specialty” are well outlined on the website i.e. www.annalsofdentalspecialty.net.in. However, it is just to stress that all articles shall be subjected to plagiarism testing. Intellectual contribution is desired to be defined by the authors. A declaration regarding competing personal, commercial, political and financial interest shall be mandatory to be provided. One author (corresponding author) is to own the responsibility for the originality of the article. It is advised that authors obtain publication consent from the patients where ever applicable.

We welcome original research, review articles and case reports, selection of which shall be based on originality, clarity of message, relevance to the journal’s mission and importance of the content as well as subject.

I hope this issue will also be beneficial and encouraging for the new readers and researchers to expand their knowledge arena.

Many thanks to all the authors for contributing there work to our journal and any comments or suggestions you may have that would improve the Journal are heartily welcome.
